controlQ: Button submit input to mysql in rails I want to submit my results from a form and save them into mysql. I tried the following:

inside my form: inside my controller: class ActionController::NotFoundError render :new end end

but I receive this error:

uninitialized constant ActionController::Parameters::Parsley

I think it has something to do with ruby 1.8 and rails 2.3.8. I am using bundler so i think it can't find the class inside the class. A: The problem was simple when I took out `rescue_from`

ActiveRecord::RecordNotFound, now works. In the drilling of oil wells, one of the most difficult problems encountered is the placement and positioning of control instruments in and around the well casing. Often, use is made of a "mud motor" which is made up of a casing string and a subsurface motor located at the upper end of the casing string. The casing string is a metal pipe through which drilling mud is passed to drive a drill bit and to carry the drill cuttings from the drilling operation to the surface. The string may be rigid or flexible or reinforced by a steel cable, and on the up-well side the string is centered and surrounded by mud. The upper end of the casing string is screwed into a casing head and the lower end, which may be referred to as an out-well end, is connected to a "mother-bob" at the lower end of the drilling riser. Sub-surface motors are typically constructed from one or more bearing assemblies about which is wound a motor shaft. These motors may be either positive displacement motors or
